About El Enemigo

El Enemigo is a Mendoza winery founded by Alejandro Vigil, the long-serving chief winemaker of Catena Zapata, and Adrianna Catena; its company name, Aleanna, combines their two names. It sources grapes from high-altitude vineyards across Mendoza, especially in the Uco Valley.

El Enemigo is particularly known for Cabernet Franc, which it has championed in Argentina alongside Malbec, and for wines that combine ripeness with freshness and a clear sense of place. Its Gran Enemigo single-vineyard range, from distinct sites across Mendoza, forms the top tier of the winery's wines.

About Gran Enemigo Gualtallary Single Vineyard Cabernet Franc, Tupungato (Aleanna)

Gran Enemigo Gualtallary comes from a single vineyard in Gualtallary, a high-altitude district of Tupungato in the Uco Valley, where calcareous soils and cool nights give freshness and tension. Made mainly from Cabernet Franc with a little Malbec, it is a fragrant, structured red with dark fruit, herbs and a chalky texture. It is one of Argentina's most respected Cabernet Francs and ages well for fifteen years or more.
