About Il Caberlot

Podere Il Carnasciale is a small estate in the hills of the upper Valdarno in Tuscany, best known for Il Caberlot. The estate is devoted to a single grape variety of the same name, Caberlot, a rare natural crossing thought to be of Cabernet Franc and Merlot, which was discovered in a vineyard and propagated by the estate.

Il Caberlot is produced in very small quantities and traditionally bottled only in magnums, which has given it a cult following among collectors. A second wine, Il Carnasciale, is made from the same grape.

About Il Carnasciale

Il Carnasciale is the estate's second wine, made from the same Caberlot grape as its flagship Il Caberlot, a variety believed to be a natural crossing of Cabernet Franc and Merlot. It is fragrant and medium to full-bodied, with red and dark fruit, herbal and spicy notes. It is approachable earlier than Il Caberlot and keeps for around ten years.
