About Comm. G.B. Burlotto

Commendatore G.B. Burlotto is a historic estate in Verduno, at the northern edge of the Barolo zone, founded in the nineteenth century by Giovan Battista Burlotto, one of the first producers to bottle and sell Barolo under his own name. It is still family-owned and is now run by Fabio Alessandria, a descendant of the founder.

Burlotto is best known for its Barolo from the Monvigliero cru in Verduno, but it also holds a parcel in Cannubi. The wines are made traditionally, aged in large oak, and are prized for their perfume, finesse and transparency.

About Barolo, Cannubi

Cannubi is one of the most famous crus of Barolo, a long hill in the commune of Barolo known for wines that combine perfume and structure. Burlotto's Cannubi is made traditionally and aged in large casks, giving a fragrant, finely balanced Barolo with red fruit, floral and spice notes. It needs eight to ten years to open and ages well for decades.
