About La Rioja Alta

La Rioja Alta was founded in 1890 in Haro, in the town's historic Barrio de la Estación, home to several of Rioja's oldest bodegas. It is renowned for classic, long-aged Rioja, including the Gran Reservas 904 and 890 and the Viña Ardanza Reserva, and it still makes its own barrels.

The group also owns other estates, including Torre de Oña in Rioja Alavesa, where it makes wines in a somewhat more modern style. La Rioja Alta is one of the most respected names in Spanish wine.

About Torre de Ona Finca Martelo Reserva, Rioja

Finca Martelo is a Rioja Reserva from the Torre de Oña estate in Rioja Alavesa, made from a single vineyard planted mainly with Tempranillo alongside small amounts of other local varieties. Aged in oak, it is fresh and structured, with red and dark fruit and spice. It drinks well on release and develops further over a decade or more.
