About Mondavi & Chadwick

Seña was created in 1995 as a joint venture between Robert Mondavi of Napa Valley and Eduardo Chadwick of Viña Errázuriz, with the aim of making a Chilean wine to stand with the world's finest. The Chadwick family has owned it outright since 2004.

The wine comes from a hillside vineyard in the Aconcagua Valley, cooled by Pacific breezes and farmed biodynamically. Seña helped show that Chile could produce long-lived Bordeaux-style blends of real quality, and it is one of South America's most collected wines.

About Sena, Aconcagua

Seña is a Bordeaux-style blend based on Cabernet Sauvignon, with Carmenère, Merlot, Malbec and Petit Verdot in proportions that vary by year. It is a polished, structured red with dark fruit, herbs and fine tannins. It is approachable after a few years and ages well for fifteen years or more.
