About Antinori

Marchesi Antinori is one of the oldest family wine businesses in the world, based in Florence, where the family has been involved in the wine trade since 1385. Now led by the twenty-sixth generation, the company owns estates across Tuscany, Umbria and beyond.

Under Piero Antinori, the family played a central part in the rise of the 'Super Tuscans' with Tignanello and Solaia, and on the coast at Bolgheri it established the Tenuta Guado al Tasso estate. Antinori is known for combining traditional Tuscan varieties with Bordeaux grapes and for wines of consistent quality that age well.

About Matarocchio, IGT (Guado al Tasso)

Matarocchio is a rare, limited-production wine from Antinori's Guado al Tasso estate in Bolgheri, made entirely from Cabernet Franc. It is a deep, aromatic red with dark fruit, floral and herbal notes and fine, firm tannins, showing how well the variety suits Bolgheri's warm coastal climate. It sits at the top of the estate's range and develops well over fifteen years or more.
